East London & City Branch of CAMRA

REAL ALE IN EAST LONDON & CITY: A BASIC GUIDE

First Edition: March 1983

A NOTE FROM THE PUB LIAISON OFFICER

Only about 45 copies of this Guide exist: it is being distributed to active members of the Branch and no wider. This is because its very much a prototype: in later, improved issues I hope we will have better maps, more information and notes about the pubs, indication of bus routes etc. This first version makes no attempt to do more than say what the real ale pubs are, where, with an indication of location on the maps.

Every effort has been made to ensure accuracy in this booklet, but there are bound to be mistakes I've not noticed, and in particular the location of some of the pubs in the maps, in E4 for example, is very approximate. If you spot a mistake or have additional information or a description of a pub, please let me know so it can be put into the next Guide. I'd be very grateful, especially, for help with producing clearer and better maps.

Thanks and acknowledgements are due to many. The breweries and London Transport Real Ale Research Group have provided much information through Roger Warhurst, the London Pub Information Co-ordinator, and many Branch members have given me an avalanche of notes about the ELAC area. In particular, thanks are due to Giles, Bernard, Tony Booth, Rick, Pete Large, Mick, Bob Bennett, Bas, and Hilbre Jenkins, as a result of which we have virtually full information on E1, E4, E7, E14, E16, and E17, plus EC2. The maps owe much to some early ones made by Keith a couple of years ago or so. Max organised the pagination of the Guide and painted the blobs on the map that tell you you're in sight of a pint.

The number by each pub indicates its blob number on the relevant postal area map; for some districts like E1 there is more than one map. That's the end of this pompous drivel from your Pub Liaison Officer: I hope this Guide gives you many hours of happy surveying!
